ABOUT THE CLASS

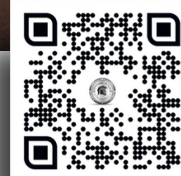

This course is designed for proactive police officers looking to expand their knowledge of criminal interdiction. The instructor has developed a program for both rookie and seasoned officers to better understand how Drug Trafficking Organizations (DTOs) operate and how to position themselves for success during a traffic stop. Officers will learn how to take a disciplined approach to locating, identifying, and seizing narcotics, illicit currency, and other contraband. The course will explain the legal process of identifying vehicles engaged in criminal activity, recognizing criminal behavior, conducting effective vehicle searches during a traffic stop, and identifying advanced concealment methods used by DTOs.

Instructor Brian Konopka will discuss how to conduct interdiction efforts on our nation's interstates, highways, and country roads. Students will learn to articulate reasonable suspicion and probable cause based on the totality of the circumstances surrounding a traffic stop. They will also learn how to build a criminal interdiction case from start to finish by recognizing reactions to police presence, identifying deceptive behavior, understanding the life of a mule, asking for consent during a traffic stop, and more. Additional topics of discussion will include identifying cigarette traffickers and how cigarette smuggling funds terrorist organizations like Al Qaeda, Hezbollah, and Hamas. The course will also cover free tools that proactive cops should use to build their case, how to articulate observations made during a traffic stop, and how to further the investigation beyond the initial stop.
